1. Sensor-Based Energy Conservation

Energy conservation is the decision and practice of using less energy. Turning off the light when you leave the room, unplugging appliances when they're not in use and walking instead of driving are all examples of energy conservation. Sensor Based Energy Conservation systems include smart control of electric devices with transformation of the manual systems into smart systems with incorporation of embedded systems. It results in substantial energy conservation, if properly used. One of the best energy-saving devices is the light switch. Turn off lights when not required. Many automatic devices can help in saving energy used in lighting. Also dimming lights can save energy upto 70 percent when not in use. AISSMS College of Pharmacy took step towards energy conservation by installing ON/OFF as well as DIMMING Sensor based LED tube lights in the passages and Toiletries.
